Character Education in an Online Setting

Friday, March 21, 2025

12:00 to 1:00 p.m.

Character matters in healthcare. Provider virtues – like compassion, honesty, and intellectual humility – aren't just abstract ideals. They have an observable impact on things like patient satisfaction, health outcomes, and the quality of care delivered.

Dr. Colgrove will discuss how character development can be a core part of higher education. He also will outline practical classroom strategies to foster virtue among students and sketch some ways in which we might apply these strategies successfully to online learning environments.

This will be a live virtual presentation on Zoom. Use the QR code or go to our CNR Seminar webpage to join the seminar.
